SOUP & SALAD LUNCH

The sign up sheet on the hall table have some promising soups on the list. For starters, Elissa Hock-Wimmer plans to bring white chicken lasagna soup. Katie Rito, who went to culinary school, is bringing potato soup. John Sezna shared the recipe for the soup he plans to bring, and it's a copycat of Olive Garden's Zuppa Toscana. If you have not signed up yet because you're not sure what to bring, just remember, there's always room for dessert, even though Susie Stevenor is bringing her Texas Sheet Cake. However, you can't put off the decision much longer. This is the final Sunday to sign up. You can even sign up and remain undecided for now. Follow Tim Meyer's lead and leave the "what you're bringing" section empty.

Always remember, your presence is more important than what you present at these events.

If you are bringing something, please try to arrive by 10:15, so you can get your crockpot plugged in or salad into the fridge. Please remember to bring serving utensils.

This luncheon will also be a transition time from the retiring Governing Board members and Nominating Committee members to the new people who will serve in those capacities.

FELLOWSHIP NEWS

The Fellowship Committee was not able to meet this past Wednesday, so they are planning to meet after Sunday Service. A couple of topics that will be discussed include the Soup & Salad Lunch and an outing in February.

MEN'S LUNCH

Please let John Sezna know if you plan to attend this month's Men's Lunch at Akron Family Restaurant, 250 W. Market St., Thursday (1/18) at noon.

In the past, the annual Acme Community Cash Back program started in August and ended around Christmas. This year, cash back totals will keep showing up on receipts until the end of February. So, keep dropping the receipts into the "little white church." If you find a receipt in a shopping cart, bring that one in, too.

If we all do a little, it adds up to a lot.
